Want BETTER APARTMENTS. Quite a spirited discussion followed a suggestion that the present chamber occupied by the Council be refitted and rendered more attractive, with the outcome that a motion was made to appropriate $1,000 to remodel and rearrange the present chamber and the rooms overhead for commodious occupancy by the Council and some of the city officials. This motion was lost.

The reports from the various city officials and committees were then read and approved, and the consent of the Council signified for the construction of a number of small houses.

Resolutions were then presented by Mr. Sims, requiring the Southern Railway Company to provide gates at their crossing at Second and Hill streets, and that the Fire Commission be directed to erect a fence around the maintenance of a horse and hose-wagon. Both resolutions were adopted, and the session stood adjourned.

A PLEASANT ENTERTAINMENT.

The entertainment given last night at Central Methodist church, under the auspices of the Epworth League, and under the wise supervision of Mrs. W. W. Lear and Miss Lucy Carr, was a very pleasant one indeed. The program had been arranged with much care and taste, and was sustained so well by the participants, could not fail to delight every present.

Clopton-Street church was filled to the doors last night with an audience who came to laugh and enjoy themselves, and one that did not go away disappointed. The able lecturer spoke in mild sarcasm, dashed into brilliancy by outbursts of wit and humor of the many characters in everyday life, who, in a moment, without the slightest effort, got up like nitroglycerine, and lit the "off Tree."

The lecture was illustrated by paintings, and is a deservedly popular one.

CIRCUIT-COURT-NEWS.

The Circuit Court of Chesterfield opened yesterday in adjourned session and, with the many lawyers present pushing their business through, the day was a busy one.

In the suit of Robertson's Administrator vs. Dimmick, for damages caused by the cavorting of a coal-shaft, in which young Robertson was killed, the defendant demurred to the plaintiff's evidence at the regular trial, and the jury rendered their verdict for $4,000 in favor of the plaintiff, subject to the judgment of the Court on the demurmer to the plaintiff's evidence. The demurmer was sustained by the Court, and the plaintiff filed exceptions.

The demurmer to the declaration in the case of Bolling vs. Kahl was overruled by the Court, and the case set for pretrial trial at the February term of the court, and effort was made to remove this case to the Hustings Court of the city of Manchester, but no agreement could be reached for this purpose.

The case of Patch, etc., vs. Rollins occupied the court and jury a great part of the day, resulting in a verdict in favor of the defendant's (Rollins') estate.

Counsel in the will-contest case of Jackson's heirs vs. Jackson, et al., were granted writs of exception for the Court of Appeals. At the trial of this case the jury decided in favor of the will, and the contestants appealed.

This session of the court will be a short one.

Yesterday morning about 10:35 o'clock fire was discovered in the store of Mrs. H. Igeman, in the Masonic Temple, at the corner of Hull street and Covington Avenue. The origin is unknown. The blaze, however, was but a small one, and the alarm was turned in, but was quickly extinguished by those in the vicinity. The loss was trifling.

ONE OF THE CITY'S NEEDS.

For a long while the people of Manchester have been subjected to the great inconvenience of not having either a telegraph-office or a post-office in the city. They have borne this inconvenience patiently, there is a time when patience ceases to be a virtue, and several members of the Board of Trade, realizing this, are urging President Patterson to call a meeting of the board to take some action in regard to the matter. Manchester has a population of about 13,000 souls, and 2,300 houses within its corporate limits, yet her people have to go to Richmond for every express package they receive or send away. They have to do the same things with which they want to send a telegram message. A great expense is attached to it, also.

NEW PREST TO TAKE CHARGE.

Mr. Clarke to Be Inducted Into Office To-Morrow Afternoon.

The Manchester City Council met last night at 7:30 o'clock in monthly session. When the minutes of the several meetings past had been approved the President stated that a communication had been sent to Mayor Maurice, and replied to his Honor, relative to a report as to the monthly expenditures of the city in providing food for prisoners in the Police Court. Mr. Sims in August had prepared these resolutions, intending thereby to lessen the expenses now incurred by the city through its prisoners by stipulating that the fines imposed should include the cost of keeping prisoners. These resolutions were addressed to the Clerk of the Police Court, and since that office does not exist, were futile, as was stated in the Mayor's reply. Mr. Sims said, in explaining his position, that it would be appreciated if the Mayor were at various times to make suggestions when he saw that different legislation by the Council would be more advantageous than those which had suggested itself to the members. Continuing, the speaker said that he would beg to criticize the official work of the Mayor in that it did not extend into a closer touch with the work of the Council, and soliloquized add that to his knowledge his Honor had never made but one suggestion—a wise one—and that to his knowledge his Honor had never done. This honored Mayor Maurice to his feet, and his Honor's statement was a clear review of the entire ground of contention. He said it was the City Attorney's business, and not the Mayor's, to furnish the honorable body with all needed information, enabling them to properly draft important resolutions and other important papers. The Mayor added that he was gratified to know that the suggestion of an increased salary was considered by the Council a wise one.

This little world runs over. Mr. Green, in his resolution, under discussion was referred to the Committee on Retrenchment, and this course was taken after further discussion.

The reports from the various city officials and committees were then read and approved, and the consent of the Council signified for the construction of a number of small houses.
